

Will I get the answers I am after?

Searching is part of the research process and needs to be done to rule out all possibilities with brickwalls. It is essential that every document that could give an answer is examined. Sometimes a task needs revisiting after a few years as documents are deposited in archives as they are discovered. Many archives lurk in dusty attics just waiting to be discovered and deposited. Just because the answer wasn't around 20 years ago doesn't mean it isn't now.

17/05/19